

Chapter 1

Hospital in San Francisco, 1980

A pregnant woman is screaming and freaking out and she is being pushed on a hospital bed with wheels. She is screaming and her husband walks to her and he said, "It will be alright, Ronda. I will make sure nothing bad will happen to our twins." The man is thrown to the side of the hallway and the pregnant woman is brought by hospital workers to the maternity room. The man paces outside of the door and he sweats. After a long time, the doctor walks out with twin babies. The man and the woman see the babies and she said, "I want one to be named, Jason. I knew the greatest thing of my life would be named, Jason." The man said, "I want the other one to be named, Mason." The doctor said, "Why would you give your twins rhyming names?" The man said, "To reflect on the fact they are twins but they are likely to be very different in terms of personality." The woman said, "I am just happy to have successfully given birth." The twin babies are placed in a room with many other babies.

A shady couple walks by the maternity ward and they fill out paper work and their baby is named Jason. The nurse mistakenly takes the baby from the other couple and gives it to them since they are both labeled, Jason and there is no last name anywhere in the paperwork.

Chapter 2

Greek Town in northern San Francisco, 1988

The man that stole the baby sits at a table smoking a cigar while he sits with Italians wearing black suits with ties. One of the Italians said, "Look, Garret, we need the money you owe us from those weapons we supplied you with. You said you could only use the best which are the Italian made weapons since they do not fall apart like your petty American made weapons." Garret said, "I still have not used them yet. I don't have the money yet. I have possession of five bank accounts that I have already hacked. The bank accounts seem to have been duds. I will still see if my scam plans work for my Greek charity. Jason! Get me another beer!" Jason, a blond haired Anglo Saxon boy walks to the table with a tray with bottles of beer on it. A large strong teenager with a buzz cut walks in and he pushes Jason aside. Garret said, "Donnie, my man. What have you done to aid our cause?" Donnie said, "Some woman left her wallet in her handbag when I tripped her. I pretended to be sorry and I helped her up and packed her handbag. Little did she know that I swiped her wallet from her and it has $200 in it." Garret said, "Good for you. Why can't that little brother of yours, Jason do anything like that? All he ever does is eat, breath, sleep, and follows my orders." Jason said, "This is bogus. You always give praise to Donnie for doing things and you never give me any credit. I helped you hack a bank machine so you can take all the money out of it. You were successful and you gave Donnie some of the cash but you did not give any of it to me." Garret said, "Donnie is older than you. He needs more money for his problems." Jason said, "What kind of problems, like buying soda? I hate you so much. I like to go to my friend's place to chill out." Garret said, "Next time you see, El Dorro, ask him if his family could spare some money to me so I can pay my firearm debts."

Jason sneaks out of the house and he walks through the Greek community. Jason sees the gyro shop, the felafel place, and other stores that sell imports from Greece. Jason walks down an old run down neighborhood. He sees some Italian kids breaking into someone's car by smashing the front windshield and taking money that was left inside of it. Jason knocks on the door to a small house and a Mexican boy answers the door. Jason said, "Hey, El Dorro. May I come over, my father is being a jerk like usual." El Dorro said, "Yes you may, Jason. I am playing Galactic Battle on the MES system. I am in my greatest game yet. I started playing at 3 today and it is almost 6." Jason and El Dorro walk into El Dorro's room and they sit on large balls filled with beans that form into chairs. Jason watches the game and he said, "I hear your parents do business with my parents." El Dorro said, "My dad tells me that Republicans do not approve of immigrants from Mexico and he has a pact that says he will support your father and he will get to stay in this country. I don't know what any of that means." El Dorro shuts off the MES system and he takes out the large gray game cartridge and he places a different one in the system. Jason grabs one of the rectangular controllers and they play the game together. Jason said, "My father treats my brother better than me. I have always went by the rules that my parents have taught me which says that if I steal I will prosper from the money that is made and I could become rich and make a living. In school, we are taught that stealing is bad. I don't know which path to follow." El Dorro said, "My father says it is only bad if you get caught. If you don't get caught, you're in luck." Jason said, "Something tells me that it is wrong and I should not be doing it. I don't like my father and I try not to be like him. Maybe I shouldn't steal since that is what he has told me." El Dorro said, "You could be right. I lost a few MES games from that time my house was broken into. Maybe you should take a stand against your father." Jason said, "Maybe I will. I have heard that related people often share certain values and characteristics. I am not like my father at all. I don't look like him nor do I share his qualities of stealing. I sometimes wonder if he even is my father at all." El Dorro said, "Some people are very different from their parents." Jason said, "You're right. They probably do exist and I might just be one of them."

Chapter 3

Jason goes home and the floor looks very dirty. Jason sees that a giant big screen TV has been placed in the living room. Jason said, "A new TV? What happened to our old TV?" Donnie is in the living room and he said, "Dad threw his foot into our old TV because the soccer, football, and basketball teams he bet money on lost. We have a new TV now." Jason said, "This thing must have cost a lot of money and I thought we were short on that." Donnie said, "I just distracted the people at the store while dad and the Italians smashed the front window and grabbed this and ran away with it." Jason said, "I am sick of this! I hate it that we people have to steal to get things. I know that is what I have always been told but I am starting to think it is wrong. I would rather play this fare and square. I have a brain under this mop top I have on my head." Garret runs into the living room and he said, "Mop top! Did you just say you were a mop top?" Jason said, "Yes, I kinda did." Garret said, "That's great. I need to clean the floor and I lost my last mop." Garret takes a long metal stick and he holds it up to Jason and a devilish grin forms on his face.

Garret ties Jason's body to the stick and he uses Jason's hair as the mop. Jason's face is plunged into the soapy water and he is dragged across the floor and Garret mops the place up. Jason's hair is filled with particles of dirt and soap. Jason said, "This is going to take hours to clean out my hair." Garret said, "That's not my problem." Garret continues to clean the floor with Jason as the mop. Jason sits in the bath for a long time afterward as his hair soaks in the water. Jason thinks about the evils of his father and brother. Jason said, "I watch TV and I see shows that have super heroes that defeat bad guys that do all the same things my dad does. Maybe I should take the role of the super hero if he is going to take the role of the villain. If I am going to be a super hero, I need a secret lair. What would I use as the secret lair and where will I put it?" Jason gets visions of him being a superhero and fighting his dad and brother.

Jason walks out onto the street a few blocks away from his house. He places a cardboard refrigerator box on the sidewalk and he sits in it in the hot July sun. The sun shines brightly on the surface of the city and Jason is protected by the cardboard box. Jason said, "This is not much but it is definitely an improvement from the house I lived in before. It just needs a cooler to keep Cool-Light in and other drinks and maybe even ice cream. I can't get electricity in here but that is the price I have to pay for not living at home with those jerks." Jason continues to bake in the sun while he rests in the box. Jason is about to fall asleep when he feels the box shaking as someone knocks on the roof of it.

Jason peeks outside and he sees an incredibly gorgeous girl wearing a bright pink dress and long golden hair and a face that is perfectly symmetrical. Jason looks out and the girl looks at him. She said, "What is a boy like you doing camping out here on a hot day like today? Jason said, "My brother's a jerk, my father's an uber-jerk, and his friends that hang out at my place are ultra jerks and I am dang sick of being used as the mop for my house." The girl said, "Well you have a mop on your scalp so, I guess that makes sense if you mean that literally." Jason said, "I do mean it as if it actually happened. I am not joking. I just need a break from those criminals that surround me." The girl said, "I am always looking for new friends. You can come to my house for a bit." Jason said, "I guess that's a good idea. What is your name?" The girl said, "My name is, Pamela. What is yours?" Jason said, "My name is, Jason." Pamela said, "Like from, Jason and the Argonauts?" Jason said, "I guess so. I come from a family of Greeks but I say it looks more like I come from a family of ancient geeks." Jason and Pamela walk down the hot street to her house.

Chapter 4

Jason said to Pamela, "What do you do for fun?" Pamela said, "I like comic books and video games and cartoons on TV." Jason said, "That sounds exactly like the kind of things that I enjoy doing." Pamela said, "You are not just saying that to impress me, are you?" Jason said, "Of course not. Why would I?" Pamela said, "A lot of guys lie to me about their interests so I would like them more." Jason said, "Well, I didn't lie." Pamela said, "I know you didn't. Here's my house." Pamela takes Jason to a house that is large and has a marble white design on the outside. Jason said, "I know places like these. I see them on TV. I hear rich people live in them. My father is always saying we should be living in a house like that while everyone else should be living like peasants in the middle ages. I don't know what that means but my dad is middle aged so that kinda makes sense." Pamela said, "I am rich. That is why I live in such a nice place like this." Jason said, "TV always tells me that rich people are greedy jerks that brag about things they have. It is like they want everything they could get. I heard of a rich girl like this and she fell down a chute at a candy factory she won a tour of. I never heard from her since." Pamela said, "I am not like that at all. I am caring and thoughtful of other people. People would pay me to come to my place for fun and games. I will let you in for free because I think you deserve it."

Jason and Pamela step into her mansion and Jason slowly walks and spins as he glances at everything there is to see. The place has white statues and a large marble fountain that shoots out a beautiful stream of water in the air and falls to the bottom of a large bowl. There are valuable paintings on the wall that were painted by legends that lived in the 17 and 1800's. Jason said, "I never would have guessed a place as beautiful as this would exist in real life." Pamela said, "Welcome to my world."

Jason and Pamela sit at a large marble table and they are given menus. Jason looks at the menu and he said, "There's so much to choose on this. I like a lot of these things. What to choose, oh what to choose. What do you recommend?" Pamela said, "The pizza with pork schnitzel is pretty good." Jason said, "I guess I will get that." Pamela said, "Why don't we get a large one we can split?" Jason said, "I don't think that is a good idea." Flashback to Jason eating all the food at the Greek buffet. Jason keeps eating everything and people get angry at him and they drag him out of the place and he grabs onto the door frame and they yank him out." Pamela said, "I guess you will have the extra large while I will just have the regular large. My stomach is not made out of steel unlike yours. I will summon the butler to come and take our orders." Pamela raises her right hand and she twirls it around and the butler comes to the table. The butler looks like a stereo-typical dork and he has a goofy haircut and a very rectangular vertical face. The butler said, "What would you like this evening my fine young lady?" Pamela said, "I will have the pork schnitzel pizza, large and he will have that in an extra large." The butler said, "I got that." Pamela said, "Thanks, Rob." Rob the butler leaves with the order written on his pad. Jason said, "You have a butler? This must be some kind of a dream or something." Pamela said, "It costs a lot less than you think to hire a student." Jason said, "I wish I found this place sooner. I hope my family does not find out about this place."

Jason and Pamela sit and socialize. Pamela said, "Do you have any other friends?" Jason said, "I am friends with some kid in town named, El Dorro. My father calls him a, 'Mexican Alien' but what does he know. We just sit in his bedroom and play on his MES system." Pamela said, "He has an MES system?" Jason said, "Yes he does." Pamela said, "I've got one of those. I don't play on it that much because I spend most of my time playing on the actual machines which most of those games were meant to be played on." Jason said, "You have an arcade in this place?" Pamela said, "I most certainly do." Jason said, "We should play there after we eat." Pamela said, "That is a good idea."

Jason and Pamela get their pizza and Pamela eats about half of it and she is full. Pamela leans back in her seat and she said, "I am stuffed like a teddy bear." Jason folds his pizza up into a small square and he gulps it down. Jason said, "What's for dessert?" Pamela said, "You ate all of that and you still want a dessert?" Jason said, "Of course I want a dessert. What else would I eat to properly complete this bliss from the heavens?" Pamela said, "Rob, get Jason some ice cream." Rob said, "I will bring that menu out." Jason gets some premium ice cream and he gulps it down and Pamela takes Jason to other parts of her mansion. Pamela said, "I will show you my room." Pamela leads Jason down a long white hallway with many smooth wooden doors. Pamela opens one up and Jason walks into a pink room that is littered with stuffed animals, dolls, a large TV, video games, and a VCR. Jason said, "Wow, you have like, everything I could ever dream of." Pamela said, "I get that a lot."

Jason and Pamela go to her arcade room and they play some arcade games. Jason said, "Zevous. That is my second favorite, Mancom game next to Pack-Guy and Mrs. Pack-Guy." Jason and Pamela play the game for a bit and Jason said, "I want to see more of this room. Jason looks and he spots another game he is interested in. Jason said, "Super Pack-Guy. I did not think that game was released yet." Pamela said, "Well, it is." Jason plays it for a bit and he said, "I saw the original Pack-Guy and I thought video gaming did not get any better than that. I was wrong because I soon after discovered the sequel, Mrs. Pack-Guy. That is the best game ever. I said that when I played the third game, Pack-Guy Junior. That game was quite inferior and then there was Pack-Guy Senior. You basically play as Pack-Guy as an old man. He is slow and he dies easier and his diaper gets poopy after awhile. Who thought that was a good idea for a video game? They should do ten laps around the track of the Olympic stadium that I saw back in the summer of 1986." Pamela said, "You seem to know your stuff." Jason and Pamela continued to play these games. Jason overworks himself in the moment and he falls asleep. Pamela picks him up and places him in her bed. Pamela gets ready for bed and she sleeps next to him.

Chapter 5

Jason wakes up and he pans his head around and he notices it is morning and he slept in Pamela's bed. Jason looks beside him and he sees he is all alone in the bed. Jason said,

"How did I get here. The last thing I remember is playing at the arcade. Is this all a dream? It can't be. I am still here." Pamela walks into the room holding a tray of pancakes and bacon. Pamela said, "Good morning, Jason. Did you sleep well last night?" Jason said, "I guess I did." Pamela said, "My cook made us breakfast and the best part is that we can eat it here in bed." Jason said, "I guess that's good. My family just sets some simple toast on a counter and we pick it up and eat it wherever we want to eat it." Jason and Pamela dig into their food.

Jason said, "My family is full of crime lords that make millions off stealing from people." Pamela said, "Did you try getting the police?" Jason said, "My dad tells me the police are no good and I tried contacting them once but they did not buy my story." Pamela said, "Do you know where your father and family do their business at?" Jason said, "I think they do it in an old warehouse on the harbor front." Pamela said, "Why don't you get dressed and you can show me some of this and maybe I can help you out." Jason said, "I don't recall putting pajamas on so I don't think I need to get dressed." Jason pulls the covers off of him and Pamela laughs at what she sees. Jason said, "What's so funny?" Jason looks down and he sees he is in his blue briefs. Jason said, "Where are my pants?" Pamela said, "I took them off last night because I thought it would be more comfortable in bed." Jason said, "Yeah, right."

Jason and Pamela walk down the street and Pamela said, "Is your family worried about you right now for being gone for very long?" Jason said, "I have left and stayed at my friend, El Dorro's place for a few days and they have been okay with that. I am sure there will be nothing different this time. In fact, I think we should go to El Dorro's place right now because he might have info that could help us. El Dorro was my first friend. We met when we were still in diapers." Jason reaches in his pocket and he shows Pamela a picture of Jason and El Dorro looking at each other as babies. Jason said, "I met El Dorro because his family does business with my family. They are all crime lords. My family makes El Dorro's family work for ours so they can stay in America and not be deported back to Mexico." Pamela said, "Blackmail." Jason said, "What's that?" Pamela said, "Blackmail is when you make someone do something for you and you tell them if they don't do your bidding, you will do something bad to them back. There are millions of ways this could happen."

Jason and Pamela stand on El Dorro's doorstep and Jason knocks on the door. El Dorro answers it and he said, "Hason, how is it my friend?" Jason said, "Good, I have a plan to take down our crime families." El Dorro said, "I don't know about that but man, who's your friend?" Jason said, "This is Pamela." El Dorro smiles with his teeth and he gently grabs Pamela's hand and he kisses the back of it. El Dorro said, "We will settle this in my room over some games on my MES system. I think better when I play something."

Jason, Pamela, and El Dorro sit in El Dorro's room as a game is being played. Jason said, "I am sick and tired of dealing with my family of criminals. I have thought it over and I have decided that they are wrong and my thoughts of going against them are right. I always wanted to be a super hero like the ones I have read about in comics and have seen on TV." El Dorro said, "I can't go against your family. If I do, it will bring shame to my family and your family may do things that will mean I have to go back to, Mexico." Pamela said, "If you help us take down these criminals, you may be rewarded by Americans and may become an honored citizen of the United States. If you stay like this, you may get caught and then you would have to go back to Mexico. You are only making this worse by doing nothing." El Dorro said, "I guess I can do something. Our families are at the docks right now. We can go there and spy on them. I have a pair of binoculars we can use to get a better view of them." Jason said, "I guess we should learn our enemy. That's what the people I see in war movies would do."

Chapter 6

Jason, Pamela, and El Dorro get a ride from Pamela's limo driver in a white stretched limo and they ride to the docks. Jason looks around and he said, "This limo is sweet." Jason sees a glass on the wall of the limo and he picks it up and he sees a drink dispenser on the wall. Jason uses it and a clear bubbly liquid pours into his glass. Jason looks at it and he sips it. Jason said, "This stuff is awesome. You should try some, El Dorro." El Dorro takes some of the drink too and he said, "This is like the alternative drink I get on taco night which comes three times a week." Jason said, "What is this drink?" Pamela said, "It is Limon Soda. It is a drink of lemon and lime with carbonation in it." Jason said, "I need to get me some of this. Did I say fruit juice was my favorite drink? I was wrong, it is this stuff."

They arrive at the docks and they see a large black warehouse. El Dorro said, "This is it." They walk in and they hide behind some crates. Jason said, "The view is bad. We cannot see anything at all." El Dorro spots some crates that form a staircase. El Dorro said, "We could climb up there." The three of them climb up the steps and they have a bird's eye-view of the scene. Jason uses the binoculars and he zooms in on his father. He pans to the left and he sees El Dorro's father. Jason looks around some more and he sees some Italian mobsters and his mother. Pamela said, "We should listen in on this."

The mob boss said, "I still don't have my money yet. I will have no choice but to waste these liabilities that stand in front of me." Garret said, "I attempted to steal a thousand dollars from the bank yesterday. I could not do it because it requires a special tool which I put in the pants pocket of my idiot son, Jason." The mob boss said, "Why would it be there?" Garret said, "The police search people like me all the time when I am caught trying to steal from cash machines and other money terminals at the bank. They never think Jason would be the one to steal from the bank. Children never get blamed for anything these days. Not even for a crime like murder." The mob boss said, "This does not change the fact that I don't have my dough from any of you. Unless you can find that stupid child of yours..." El Dorro's father steps in and he said, "I could give you El Dorro to help you with your cause. He is a good worker. He was good at picking crops with his hands back when we lived on that farm in Arizona." The mob boss said, "More hands could be more valuable to us than money right now. The national treasury is shipping bars of gold and other jewels from Asia into our harbor at this time tomorrow. With more hands to help us, we will get the gold and jewels and we will have more than you owe us. You will even get some yourselves. You could buy a better house with that kind of money so none of you will have to live in shacks anymore." Jason's mother said, "I have to go now. I need to be on time for my shift at the city club."

El Dorro shakes in fear and his teeth start chattering. He said, "I am scared. They just said I was going to be given to the mob. I can't go with this. I don't want to work as a slave again." Jason said, "You won't. This may be our chance to stop them with their pants down to their ankles." Pamela said, "We would all be heroes if we do this. We will be entitled to a large reward and you would not have to be a slave for anyone again." El Dorro said, "Okay, but what are we going to do? They are right there and my dad is going to be looking for me at my house." Pamela said, "I can arrange for the two of you to stay at my place for the next few days." The three of them get ready to leave because they think everyone has left the warehouse. They see Jason's father standing by the door and he stops the three heroes and he said, "Jason, where have you been? I need you so we can live in richness and in wealth." Jason said, "I know your truth. You are nothing but a bunch of weasels that deserve to be thrown in jail for your crimes." Garret said, "How cute of you to take interest in justice. Now is not the time for that. I need you now." Garret grabs onto Jason and he picks him up and carries him home. Jason looks at Pamela and El Dorro as he is being carried away and Jason said, "Help me!" Garret places Jason in a car and it drives off. El Dorro and Pamela look at each other and El Dorro said, "It's fighting time." A devilish grin forms on his face. Pamela said, "Come to my place. We will devise a plan to rescue Jason and stop this crime that is supposed to take place tomorrow."

Chapter 7

El Dorro and Pamela sit at a taco stand in the city and El Dorro said, "I have been to Jason's place a few times. His house has only one story and Jason's window faces the back of the house. We could break his window and pull him out." Pamela said, "How will we do that. We are too short to reach his window. The window is close to the roof of the house from what you tell me." El Dorro said, "We could stand on something. Do you have any Bricko blocks?" Pamela said, "I have several rooms full of that." El Dorro said, "We could build a support structure we can climb on and break the window which I bet will be locked since his father wants Jason to stay at home so he can be used in the crime tomorrow." Pamela said, "My grandpa gave me a window piercer. It is a small tool that is used to cut holes in windows. We could use it to quietly cut a hole in Jason's window and his father would not even notice. We should also do this at a time where they would be sleeping. We want to get Jason out without his dad noticing." El Dorro said, "Jason's dad stays up very late on weeknights and weekends. We should do this very early in the morning. Like at the crack of dawn." Pamela said, "Why don't we go to my place now and draw up further plans and then go to sleep. We will be needing the extra sleep if we are going to pull this off." El Dorro said, "I like the way we think. We are like a choir of ideas and thoughts that go useful when placed together." Pamela said, "Are you always like this?" El Dorro said, "Only when there are girls around that I like."

Jason is thrown into his room by his father and brother and his father said, "Don't you dare escape me like that again. I don't know what kinds of things you do with that Mexican boy but it cannot interfere with my plan. I have the heist of the decade tomorrow and I will be needing your brother's help and your help too. If you are not going to do anything, then just stay in your room and don't leave. Don't get any ideas from those comic books of yours. They are wrong." Donnie said, "I will pound your butt into the ground if you do anything to jeopardize this plot." They leave Jason alone in his bedroom. Jason shakes in fear and he begins to bite his nails and suck on his thumb. Jason is left alone for hours and it is close to nighttime. Jason has posters all over his wall of Captain Fusion and other heroes he reads comics about. Jason is at a small desk in his room and he draws a picture of himself as a super hero. In the picture, Jason wears a purple mask that only covers his eyes, a green suit with a purple cape with purple boots and purple gloves. This character has a gold triangle on his chest that display the letters, "AJ." Jason said, "I wish I could become a super hero like, Atomic Jason. I want to be able to end this crime family as much as any super hero would like to put an end to evil doers. That's what my idol, Captain Fusion would do." Jason looks at his large Captain Fusion poster and he continues to draw the picture and he draws Atomic Jason standing over Jason's parents and brother locked up in small cages. Jason goes to bed and he lies down in it. Jason continues to shake in fear knowing what will happen tomorrow. Jason said, "This is a perfect time to become a super hero. The heist of the century is on tomorrow and I can very well stop it dead in its tracks. But how? I don't know what to do. I am stuck. I will be kicking myself over this."

Jason calms down and he stares at the ceiling and he cannot sleep. Jason hears the sound of a pebble hitting the window and he turns his head to see what it is. He sees El Dorro's face in the window and he is smiling with his teeth. Jason said, "El Dorro?" Jason walks to the window and he opens it up. Jason said, "It is 5:30 in the morning. What are you doing here and how did you get up to my window that is close to the ceiling of my house?" El Dorro said, "Look down below me." Jason climbs up a shelf with action figures and he gets to the window sill and he looks down and he sees a staircase that is made out of colorful Bricko building blocks. Jason said, "How did you build all of this?" El Dorro said, "Pamela supplied the lot." Jason looks down and he sees Pamela standing on the ground below and she waves to him. Jason said, "Alright! My best friends are here to help me on my adventure to become the ultimate super hero and put the bad guys out of business. This is my lucky day." El Dorro cuts the windows into pieces and the glass in the frame rains down and it gone.

Jason crawls out of the window and he climbs down the Bricko stairs and he reunites with El Dorro and Pamela. Pamela said, "We have devised a plan to take out your father and all of those dumb mobsters that he does business with." Jason said, "This is perfect. We work as a team. I guess I will be, Jason and you will be my, Argonauts." The three of them run down the street and they head to their place of meeting.

Chapter 8

The three of them run to Pamela's mansion and they go into her basement where a plan is drawn out on the blackboard. Jason and El Dorro sit at a round table while Pamela explains her plot. Pamela said, "The shipment will arrive at the docking port 87. We will strike there when the time is right. The only possible way we can prevent this theft is if we do things to steer the bad guys away from the loot they wish to take. I have arranged my limo driver to take us there and pick us up after we reroute the bad guys. I have set up a few booby traps in this mansion and I have prepared Rob my butler to take action against the threat. I have a few assault weapons myself." Pamela shows she has a boxing glove on a coil. We want them to know it is us that is doing this. We will lure them to this place and they will fall right into my traps where they will be caught and sent off to justice." Jason said, "That sounds like a much better plan than anything I would ever come up with." El Dorro said, "What will become of us if we succeed in this plan?" Pamela said, "Your parents will be stripped of their rights to be parents and you will end up with a different set of parents." Jason said, "Any parents would be an improvement to the ones that I have right now." Pamela said, "That's the spirit I want." El Dorro said, "What will become of me? I don't want to be sent back to Mexico. My family has tried very hard to live in this country. They only got their selves into this mess so they can make a living. I don't want anything bad to happen to me because I played hero against them." Pamela said, "Our society is just. I am sure they will come up with something fair and reasonable. I am sure they will not make you live in Mexico again." El Dorro said, "You better be right."

The three of them get in the limo and they head off to the docks. It is morning and the sun has risen. Pamela stares at her watch and she waits for the right moment to begin the strike. Jason said, "What time are we supposed to strike at?" Pamela said, "The shipment is supposed to dock at 9 am. That is in five minutes from now. It is possible that the shipment could be late. That has happened more often than not." Jason said, "I guess I should be ready to jump out like a cheetah." Pamela said, "Yes, exactly."

In five minutes time, the ship comes in and it connects to the docking port. The ramp extends from the ship and they get ready to deposit their cargo. Pamela said, "Now!" The three of them run out of the limo and they head for the platform where the cargo is being brought to. They hide behind a wall and they see mobsters in suits with ties show up at the scene to check the cargo. One of the mobsters takes out a metal bar and he wedges the crate open and it reveals gold and diamonds. El Dorro said, "I would like to get me some of that." Jason said, "What do we do next?" Pamela said, "We route them off. Follow on my lead."

Jason walks up behind the mobsters and he said, "That is some pretty nice gold and jewels in there." One of the mobsters said, "Actually they are diamonds but... hey!" They notice Jason and Jason runs back to the limo and they follow him. Jason runs down a narrow passageway and he slides down at the end. The mobsters don't slide and they all trip and fall into each other. Jason runs along side with El Dorro and El Dorro said, "I am glad to see that my piano string method works." Jason said, "It does." Jason and El Dorro run along the docking port and mobsters try to barricade their way out but Jason and El Dorro keep cutting corners. Pamela stands on the sideline close to the waterfront and she pours a black liquid on the pavement. Jason and El Dorro run past her before she did this and right after she does this, the mobsters run into the black liquid and they fall off the edge and into the pacific ocean. Pamela holds up the container and the camera focuses on it and the label reads, "Oily Oil, your favorite extra slippery oil." Jason looks back at the loot and he sees his father's thugs trying to take the loot. Jason turns towards it and El Dorro follows. Jason and El Dorro stand behind the thugs and Jason said, "Are you idiots finished with that gold that does not belong to you yet?" The thugs go for Jason and El Dorro and Jason try to punch one of the thugs and it does nothing. The thug said, "You have to try harder than that if you want to beat me." Jason and El Dorro realize they are surrounded with the thugs of Jason's father.

Chapter 9

Jason and El Dorro hear the voice of Garret. He said, "You have done well, Jason. You are not quite a hero as you think you are. Even with help from your friends, you still cease to amaze me. You would have to be very stupid to go against your family." Jason and El Dorro turn to Garret and they see he is with Donnie. Jason said, "I have figured it out. You guys are bad guys. I am not that stupid. I know good from evil." Garret said, "That's because you read all of those stupid comics. You know all that stuff has been made up just to entertain stupid kids like yourself." Jason said, "Not all of it is fake. Some of these heroes have battled thugs like you and they have protested against wrong people. I have read about a super hero named, Captain Fusion and he went against the United States because he thought they should not be allowed to fight in, Vietnam." Garret said, "Captain Fusion is just some crazy nutcase that someone made up and tried to use in real life to cause intrigue. He is just some fool in tights and a cape. That is what you are going to be turned into if this continues. Attack him, Donnie!" Donnie jumps out at Jason and he throws some punches and Jason gets a few of them in his face and he falls to the floor.

Jason gets up and his body shakes in pain and in fear. Donnie said, "I knew it would come to this. Siblings are always rivals. They never get along. It is time I prove myself to be the superior sibling." Jason tries to attack Donnie and he dodges the attack and Jason chases him around for a bit then Donnie grabs onto Jason's right hand and he throws it up in the air and Jason is lifted into the air slightly and he falls on his butt. Donnie kicks Jason in the face when he is down. Jason gets back up and he jumps on Donnie and he throws some weak punches to Donnie's face. Donnie just throws Jason off and Jason falls on the ground again and he slides over the crate that has been opened. Jason remembers that the crate was opened by a long metal bar. Jason looks over to the ground where it was pried open and he sees the metal bar lying there. Jason picks it up and he walks up to Donnie that is standing in all of his glory and all of his cockiness. Jason swings the metal bar like a baseball bat and he hits Donnie in the stomach and Jason swings it again and he smacks Donnie in the head. Donnie falls to the ground and Jason swings and Donnie goes flying and lands in the ocean. Jason said, "Who's the greater sibling now? You may be able to use yourself, but I can use tools as weapons. How's that, big boy?"

All the thugs that were watching the fight run to Jason as they attempt to beat him down. Jason tries to run away in fear and they grab a hold of him and Jason and El Dorro are stuck in the grasps of all the thugs. They hear an engine rev up and they see Pamela in her limo drive down the lane all the thugs are standing in. The thugs drop Jason and El Dorro and they leave the lane and they get into Pamela's limo. Pamela takes out a megaphone and she aims it outside of the car and she said, "I have called the national guard, the town, police, the SWAT team, and the FBI and they are all on their way here as we speak. You will all get arrested for mass theft." Garret sees that Jason and El Dorro are in the limo with Pamela. Garret said, "They have a rich girl as their friend? I think I know where their bad influence comes from." Garret picks up a two-way radio and he said, "Men, The police are on their way. We must evacuate the scene. Gather up in your trucks and follow that limo. It will take us to the stronghold for the only known threat to our operation." The limo drives away and Garret and his thugs and the mob boss and the remaining mobsters follow the limo. Donnie gets out of the ocean and he is back at the dock and he sees Jason and his friends escaping.

Chapter 10

Jason, Pamela, and El Dorro sit in the back of the limo and they have their heads pointed at the rear as they watch the mobsters and Garret's crooks chase after them in armored trucks. Jason said, "I think I saw this on some show on TV once. I think they are planning to use those powerful trucks to smash us or are going to use them to destroy our shelter but either way, they are going to use those to kill us." Pamela said, "I've got money. I can afford to build shelter after these freaks take it from us. We will go to my place of course. It is the next phase in our plan."

The limo speeds down the street and it drives through a red light and a gasoline tank truck drives on the intersecting street. The thugs do not stop at the red light and they hit the gas truck and the cylinders of gasoline break out and leak all over the thugs' trucks. The streets become clogged with cars and the limo manages to avoid all of this. One of the thugs gets out of the car and he lifts up the phone in the car. He said, "There is an accident at First Street. I need you to take a detour down New Street. The limo is heading north. A few of our trucks are stuck in the accident. We will not be able to assist you." The voice on the other line said, "Acknowledged. I will take the alternate route." More thug trucks and mob trucks speed down another busy street in downtown. A cop car sees them and the car drives at the thugs with his sirens on. The thugs in the truck at the back of the convoy of criminal trucks drives backwards and hits the police car and knocks it off course. The mob truck continues to follow the convoy.

The limo drives down a side street and more criminal trucks chase after them. Jason said, "We need something to slow them down with." El Dorro said, "I think there are too many of them. I have lost count." Pamela said, "My place is just up ahead. We will bolt out of this limo as soon as we get there and run through the front door. We will get to our, battle stations." The limo stops and screeches on the front lawn of the mansion. The three of them jump out and they run in through the front door. Rob holds the door open for them and he slams it shut and he locks all of the locks on the door. Pamela said, "Thanks, Rob." Rob said, "I will go to my assigned place." Rob walks there. Jason and El Dorro crowd around a window and they open the curtains and they see the criminal trucks outside. Jason said, "What do you think they are going to do?" Pamela said, "They will probably try to ram this place down. It is a very stupid thing to do but, these guys are stupid so I guess it makes sense to them." Jason sees that one of the trucks aims its front at the window Jason and El Dorro are looking out of. The truck backs up and it attempts to ram down the wall and break the window so the criminals can get in. Jason said, "I think I know what they are going to do." Jason and El Dorro run away from the window and they run into the far away hallways of the mansion. The armored truck rams into the wall and the window is smashed and it creates a large hole for the criminals to get in. Mobsters and the henchmen of Garret waltz right in the mansion and Garret enters.

Jason, El Dorro, and Pamela are in the security room watching the security footage of the front of the house. Pamela said, "It's time for me to put my traps into effect." She presses some buttons on a control panel. Jason and El Dorro watch the screens and they see what happens. The common room is large and is full of furniture. It is not easy to see what is on the floor. A few of the mobsters step in tar and their shoes come off and their socks come off. They search the place with bare feet. There is a small pile of Bricko blocks on the floor and some of the criminals step in it. They scream in pain and they fall and they smash their heads on the sides of the hardwood furniture. Jason and El Dorro look at each other in amazement for what they just saw. Big burly thugs enter the kitchen and walk past a laser detector and it activates another trap. There is a chandelier overhead and it falls down and traps the burly thug. Jason and El Dorro laugh at the trapped thug.

Jason, El Dorro, and Pamela hear a sound of someone knocking on the door. A voice yells out, "Open up! If you don't open up, I will blast you out." El Dorro said, "I think they are going to blast us even if we do open the door up." Pamela said, "That's why I have this escape plan." Pamela climbs up a file cabinet and she opens up a vent cover and she said, "Come on in." Pamela crawls into the vent and Jason and El Dorro follow her in. They crawl through the vent and they look down at various parts of the mansion and they see thugs reacting to different things in the house and searching through valuables. They keep crawling through until Jason stops at a particular spot. Jason said, "I see my father. He is with my mother." El Dorro and Pamela go to where Jason is and they look down at the scene. Garret and his wife look around at a safe that is filled with gold and diamonds and other jewelry. Garret said, "This could work to our advantage. We failed at stealing the gold from overseas, but maybe we can grab this instead." His wife said, "This would be great. I would not have to hard anymore to make money." Garret said, "There may be a catch to this. I think Jason and his friends may be around here somewhere. Come on, where do you think Jason got all of this from? There must be some kind of a setup and I must make sure Jason and his friends are captured. I wonder if El Dorro's father knows about Jason's plan." Jason looks down at this with El Dorro and Pamela and he said, "I get the strange feeling that I must confront my father and put an end to these crimes he has committed." Pamela said, "I am sure the police will put him to justice when they show up." Jason said, "What if they don't get here in time? What if Garret finds me first? I need to do something myself. I don't want to be his mop any longer."

Chapter 11

Jason sees that there are hinges where the vent cover can open. Jason opens it and he jumps down into the safe in front of his father. Garret said, "Jason, what a pleasant surprise. I am sure you are aware of the fact that you are grounded for the rest of your life and I am now super rich with all this wealth you see behind me." Jason said, "These valuables do not belong to you. They are the property of my friend, Pamela." Garret said, "Got yourself a girlfriend I see." Jason said, "I know you are wrong. I know I don't deserve the treatment I get from you or mother or even, Donnie. I have learned to go against my family." Garret said, "Family is the most important thing. You must help and support your family and love it more than anything else." Jason said, "This is not my family. My real family are my friends." Garret said, "I don't like that you talked El Dorro into this either." Jason said, "I did not talk him in. He just decided to come along with me." Garret said, "You may have been able to take out your brother, Donnie, but you cannot beat me." Jason said, "Try me."

Garret holds out his fists and he moves them around as if he were going to start a fight. Jason tries to do the same. It is obvious that Garret has a greater sense of strength and agility than, Jason. Then, Pamela and El Dorro jump from the vent and Pamela said, "If Jason is going to fight you, he is not going to do it alone. He will do it with some help from his friends." El Dorro said, "I am a much better man than my father. I have learned that kids are not just mirror images of their parents." Garret said, "This is just sounding like some cheesy feel-good made for TV movie. Let's fight." Garret jumps and he extends his right leg and he aims for Jason and Jason runs away and Garret misses. Jason and El Dorro stand in front of Garret and they try to throw punches at them and they miss. Garret picks up Jason and El Dorro and he flips them upside down and he smashes their heads into the floor. Garret laughs and he said, "You guys are weak like a fox. Just give up right now." Pamela sees a bar of solid gold lying on the floor and she picks it up. She said, "They will not give up without a proper fight." Garret turns his head towards Pamela and she throws the bar of gold and it hits Garret in the face. He steps back a little bit and he wipes some sweat off his face. Garret said, "Me, get defeated by a girl? That will never happen." Pamela said, "You are wrong." She grabs a bag of golden coins and she swings it at Garret. Garret grabs the bag and he throws it at Pamela and she slides to the other end of the room. El Dorro jumps on Garret's body and he weighs Garret down a bit. Pamela runs back to Garret and she grabs onto him and weighs him down some more. Jason grabs a gold brick and he throws it at Garret's face and it hits him in the face. Jason has over 2000 volts of anger and rage against Garret built up in him from over the years. Jason remembers a time when Garret would make him work while he lets Donnie have all the fun of stealing things from people. Jason remembers when Donnie would get cool stuff and Jason would not get much. Jason remembers when Garret would mock him and tell him he is worthless. Jason uses all of his might and he slams the brick into Garret's back. Jason breathes loudly and he gets up and steps away from him. Garret has a goose-egg on his head and he has other bumps on his back.

Garret's wife stands over him and she said, "How pathetic. A grown man and experienced fighter gets defeated by kids. How shameful. I think I am going to divorce him. I will marry that guy I met at the club. He seems to like me more." Police show up at the mansion and they arrest the mobsters and criminals that are at the place. Jason, Pamela, and El Dorro sit on the front porch as they watch the police make arrests on the criminals. Pamela said, "I think you did the right thing, Jason. He probably would have killed you or seriously injured you if you had not done what you've done. I am glad you have had the strength and courage to do what was right regardless at what you were taught." Pamela kisses Jason on the cheek. Jason sees the mob boss getting arrested and he looks at Jason and he shouts, "You have not seen the last of me! You still owe me big for all those expenses! Don't you think you can get out of those by doing this!" He gets pushed into a cop car. Donnie enters the scene and he is all soaked and wet. He looks at Jason and he said, "You!" Donnie heads for Jason and Pamela takes out a metal boxing glove on a coil and she uses it to punch off Donnie. A man with a suit and tie goes to see Jason, Pamela, and El Dorro and he said, "You are the kids involved in this? I have some information for you." The three of them get in the back of this man's car which is escorted by the police. They go to a justice office in the heart of downtown.

Chapter 12

Jason, El Dorro, and Pamela sit down in the office and the agent sits at his desk. He said, "I understand numerous damages were done to your house, Pamela." Pamela said, "You bet there are." The agent said, "I am sure your family will be successful in the court case for this." El Dorro said, "What will become of me?" The agent said, "I understand your father was arrested but don't worry. We will find you a nice, and suitable place for someone like you." El Dorro said, "That's good." Pamela and El Dorro leave the office as Jason remains in the office. Jason said, "What is my part in this?" The agent said, "Jason, do you know about your family?" Jason said, "Of course I do. I have lived with them for the last eight years of my life." The agent said, "I mean, your real family." Jason said, "The crime family I lived in is the only real family that I know about." The agent said, "I guess you were never told." Jason said, "Told what?" The agent said, "That family you lived in was not your real family." Jason said, "I guess I could have figured it out, I mean, they are very different from me."

The agent said, "When you were born, You had a mother and father that gave birth to twins. Your false mother and father took you when you were born because your false mother gave birth to a child but they were not allowed custody of the child because of the father's criminal record. They then went and they took you shortly after you were born and they raised you as if you were their child. They thought you were their child because they named theirs, Jason. Your real family has called for you. They have been looking for you. They have located you. It took some time but they did. Since this false family is not fit for you, you will go to live with your biological family." Jason said, "They have to be better than this fake family I have lived in. Anything would be an improvement at this point." The agent said, "Pack your things. You will move in with them, today." Jason said, "That's what I want to hear."

Jason walks out of the office and he sees Pamela and El Dorro waiting for him. They run to him and Pamela said, "What's up?" Jason looks at El Dorro and Pamela and he said, "The family I have lived with is fake. I have a real family that lives on the other end of the city and I am going to live with them now." El Dorro said, "Will I ever see you again?" Jason said, "I would like to think I would but I really don't know." Pamela said, "I know our paths will cross again. Fate decided we would meet each other on that fateful day. If fate likes us, we will see each other again. I know it." Jason and Pamela hug each other and Pamela kisses Jason on the cheek. Jason and El Dorro shake hands and Jason said, "It has been very good knowing you. I will never forget that fun we had playing on the MES and joking about stupid stuff. I still have this photo." Jason holds up the photo of Jason and El Dorro as babies when they first met in 1981.

Jason rides in the back of a car and he looks through his stuff. He sees his drawings of himself as, Atomic Jason. Jason said, "I guess I am kind of that hero I imagined myself as being. Jason stares out the window and his mind is full of thoughts. He thinks, "I have a real family and did he say I have a twin? I wonder what he is like. Will he be a better brother than, Donnie? I can only hope for the best." The car pulls up on a ramp and Jason gets out of the car and he sees a nice looking, average house with an average looking family standing outside waiting for him. Jason walks out of the car and he gets a closer look at this family. He sees a nice looking man with a beautiful looking woman. Jason said, "Are you guys..." They said, "Yes we are." Jason tilts his head downwards a bit and he sees himself but with brown hair. Jason stares at it. The brown haired Jason said, "You must be, Jason. I have been expecting you. You can call me, Mason. I am sure we are going to get along just fine." Jason said, "I hope so."